LOCAL AND GENERAL

School Inspector Hodgson has been visiting the school here during the week.

Mrs. Pelletier, of Monarch, is the guest of her daughter here, Mrs. E. McDonald.

Miss Martin has been forced through ill health to give up her position on the teaching staff for the balance of the term.

Mrs. Farmer, of Blairmore, attended the St. Valentine tea given by the ladies of the Institutional church on Wednesday afternoon.

The St. Valentine tea held in the club room of the Institutional church on Wednesday afternoon was quite a success. More than $40 was realized.

Wanted — Will pay highest cash prices for second-hand household furniture and miscellaneous goods of every description. Coleman Furniture Exchange Co.

Miss A. A. Campbell, formerly of the teaching staff here, was married in St. Barnabas church, Calgary, on January 8th to Mr. W. Ellis. The happy couple are now residing at Kellher, Sask.

What is advertised as "the biggest dance ever held in Coleman" will be held in the opera house on Monday evening, 19th, under the auspices of the P. S. W. P. society (Polish) of Cole- man.

Mr. G. Farrell's wife and family arrived in town a few days ago and the family have taken up their residence on Second street. Mr. Farrell is account- ant for the Italian Co-Operative Association Limited.

W. L. Ouimet issued a number of attractive circulars this week offering some unusual bargains in boots and shoes, hosiery, carpet squares, canned goods, etc. The circulars are captioned "Something of Interest for Pay Day Buyers," but an invitation is extended to visit the store daily with the added promise that "you will always find something at prices that cannot be matched elsewhere."

Mrs. Barbour, who has been the guest of her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. A. Beck, left on Wednesday for Fernie, where she will spend a week with friends before joining her husband at Portland.

Invitations will be issued in a few days for the 9th annual ball of the local Oddfellow and Resekala lodges. This event will take place on the evening of March 9th. These two lodges have an enviable reputation for hospitality and those receiving invitations should make every effort to be present.

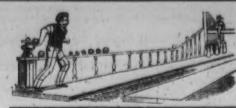

The management of the opera house have distributed a large number of full sheet posters announcing a grand St. Patrick's Day ball to take place on Friday evening, March 16th. Stokes' orchestra will provide music, and lunch will be served at midnight. Those in charge express a determination to make this the biggest event of the kind that has ever been held in Coleman. So keep the date open.

Cecil Gower has decided to close out his stock of boys' clothing, boots and shoes, etc., and with that object in view has distributed several hundred attractively illustrated bargain sheets entitled "An Attack on the High Cost of Living." The prices quoted indicate that the attack has assumed the dimensions of a regular drive, and although the operation is expected to continue until March 6th, it would be a wise move to get into the first raid. No home in which there are boys can afford to remain neutral during this engagement.

The much looked for completion of the new Salvation Army hall is now practically at hand, and although the work has been retarded by inclement weather, good progress has nevertheless been made and it has been decided to formally open the building on Tuesday, February 27th, when a splendid program is promised. Commissioner and Mrs. Sowton will have charge of the opening ceremonies. Both have visited Coleman before to the delight of those who heard them, and with such distinguished personages in charge, the opening services are sure to be a great success. The dedication ceremony will take place at 4 p.m., after which a sumptuous banquet will be served by the Home League members of the local corps from 5 to 7 o'clock. At 7:15 sharp Commissioner Sowton will give his famous lecture on "India Under Two Flags." This will be a treat for the people of the Crows Nest Pass, as the Commissioner, with his extensive knowledge of India and its people will undoubtedly unfold to us much that is of special interest and of great educational value. Adults 50c. On February 28th there will be a banquet for children, tickets 10c.

"My Lady Darrell, or the Strange Marriage," is the title of a play that will be put on at the Coleman opera house on the evening of February 20th, by local talent, under the direction of Mrs. F. G. Graham. The plot is an interest-absorbing one as the following brief synopsis indicates:

Joe Paisley, a farmer, and his wife, who live near Castle Darrell, have brought up a girl, who thinks these people are her aunt and uncle. Mrs. Paisley tells Alice she is a child of charity. Alice finds a male friend in her uncle's farm hand, Jon Travers. Lord Darrell and Lionel Wyndham, from the castle, while out hunting have a quarrel over Viola Vaughan and Lionel Wyndham is shot by Roy Darrell's gun. Alice Paisley is the only witness to the crime and marries Lord Darrell to save him from arrest. He immediately leaves home, but returns in four months time, bringing with him the Count Jura, who resolves to abduct Lord Darrell, together with the Darrell diamonds. He has an able assistant in his sister, Viola Vaughan, and successfully carries on his plan. Lord Darrell awoke to the fact that he loves his wife, and, dressed in the garb of a beggar, starts out to rescue her. He finds Alice at the Beggar's Paradise, where all is not right, and Jura is found to be the murderer of Lionel Wyndham.

State Socialism

Sweeping Extension of System Predicted For Germany

If straws show which way the wind blows there is to be a sweeping extension of State Socialism in Germany. That country's foremost workers on economics and finance are now giving the master serious attention, and much is being done by the municipalities and smaller corporations to the same end. For instance, at the moment, the government has a sugar and cigarette monopoly under consideration, according to the special Berlin correspondent of the New York Times, who also says that both these monopolies were seriously considered even before the war.

As regards the municipalities, they are under pressure of the British food blockade, being forced by the necessity of providing the highest possible supply of foodstuffs for the urban population, to starve farmers on their own account.

For instance, such towns as Hanover and Mainz have bought landed estates for municipal cultivation, and is intended to thus improve the supply of food for the their localities.

Frankfurt is to erect a municipal slaughter house, while Ulm has undertaken chicken farming on a large scale. Coblenz has bought cattle in pigs in large numbers to be placed upon municipal property.

The Berlin papers are inclined to look upon these economic and socialistic changes with a favorable eye and as good signs. They contend that there are no such two more important have given over to luxury, and once they can get this land under cultivation and put to useful and productive occupation so much the better for the country as a whole. And once they have learned to feed themselves there will be no further necessity to look to the outside world for supplies as was done previous to the present war.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Tried to Steal a Secret

German Officer Thought He Had Fooled the Japs

Shimose, the high explosive which the Russians are believed to be using in Austria, is the secret of the Japanese. For years the Germans have been developing this secret. On one occasion a German commander while on a state visit with his squadron, was very courteously shown the sample. The commander, it was thought he had not observed, grabbed as much as he could conveniently hide in his hand, and having no other place to put it without exciting suspicion, rammed it loose into his raiment, afterwards wiping his hand on the seat of his trousers. Within a few hours the sample was in the hands of the German minister accredited to Japan, and the sample was shown to the Japanese. Attempts may be made to detect the secret, other submerged vessels, but it is doubtful whether the vibration of water will convey sufficient information.

Development of Submarine

M. P. Prophesies Future Submarine

Like Great Lakes

Sir Joseph Conolly, R. E., M. P., makes a stirring prediction as to the future service of the submarine. "Very soon," he avers, "the Atlantic will be darkened by huge airships, and its depths explored by submarines. The traffic of warships or liners will be conducted with impunity from weather."

Germany boasts that she is building vessels so capacious that they will carry 1,000 men across the Atlantic. There is really no limit to their possible size except the depth of water in which they will have to operate.

The submarine of today will be the exhibit of a future museum like the old rocket, the pioneer locomotive of the railway world. Compared with the early twentieth century specimen, the submarine of the future will resemble an Atlantic liner beside a river steamboat.

In this development we shall recover our communications, fo, in time when we shall adopt the all-in-one-of-submarines navigation. The darkness of the sea depths will provide the path of safety for the great liners, and will pass, exports, and passengers will be safe in the continent to continent. Our great sample of the submarine will be to make peace at once and save further bloodshed. The plea is not novel; it has been put forth, though not in so many words, by the Germans. Sir Joseph Conolly, R. E., pointed out, however, neither the premise nor the conclusion is admirable. The war is not in the least likely to end in a draw. The allies have made up their minds to be intented with that. They are bound to fight on either to victory or defeat. Lord Bryce is confident of the former, not only because of the recent successes of the British fleet.

Lord Bryce holds the sea and her supremacy there cannot now be shaken. Whether the German government is losing heart or not, it has not yet reached the point where it will be compelled to offer any terms.

The allies can accept, and the war will be resolved from an expression into a fact.

How becoming amphibious we can use the waters in the way best suited to the purpose. A battle fleet will grow as a port as a school of fish. Forty feet below the surface an everlasting peace begins but it will be no longer the pea e of the tomb, but the still waters and green waters.

Attempts may be made to detect the secret, other submerged vessels, but it is doubtful whether the vibration of water will convey sufficient information.

A German Prediction

Written Three Days Before the Grand Offensive

We must be quite just to the Germans. And as prophets, no one will proclaim them exemplary. Their prediction about Cuba did not materialise.

Their "weakness" in Paris had to be postponed. Liege was to have been battered off the map in an instant, and Petrograd if we mistake not, to be taken by the orchestra of the Krupp guns at the second Christmas after the war. We have a notion that the prediction shared the fate of those that the Yankee indulged in a clever race.—From the News of the world.

Hitting Back

At a certain church in a Jersey town it is the usual custom of the clergyman to kiss the bride after the ceremony. A young woman who was about to be married in the church did not relish the prospect of kissing her prospective husband to tell the clergyman that she did not wish him to kiss her. The bridegroom obeyed the instructions given. "Well, Harry," said the young woman when he appeared, "did you tell the minister that I did not wish him to kiss me?"

"Yes."

"And what did he say?"

"He said that, in that case, he would charge only half the usual fee."

Germany's Great Idea

In a leading article "The Vossische Zeitung," an influential paper, commented in a long editorial, the proposal to instruct the interned prisoners in Germany in a knowledge of the language.

It urges: "Teach these English, French, and Russians, the language of their captors, and you will assist in the final crackle in the growth of cordiality and sympathy for Germans and their cause." A Britisher at the camp outside Leipzig remarked on hearing of the proposal—submitted to the men as an evening mess—"If you want to encourage sympathy, give us better grub."

To Locate a Storm

As soon as you see the crackle of lightning, count the seconds before you hear the thunder clap and in this manner you can easily determine how far away the storm is. Since light travels 186,000 miles a second we may use all practical means to estimate as seeing the lightning the instant it flashes. But sound travels 1,087 feet a second. Multiply 1,087 by the number of seconds during the interval between the lightning and the thunder and the result is the distance between you and the storm. As a rule, from twelve to fifteen miles is the greatest distance thunder can be heard.

Visitor—To what do you attribute your remarkable health?

Octogenarian—Well, I reckon I got a good start on most before germs were discovered, thereby having less to worry about.

"See the spider spinning its web." "Yes, and see the summer girl hanging out her hammock."

Judge—This man was a stranger to you! Then why did you pick a fight with him? Kelly—All my friends is away on their vacations!

W. N. U. 1117

Terms of Peace

American Paper Comments on Opinion Expressed by Lord Bryce

No Englishman has a higher place in the esteem of the American public than Lord Bryce, and his statement of the reasons why the allies cannot consent to a permanent peace will have greater weight with many than any official pronouncement would have. Speaking at a luncheon in this city, he said that he had received an address, signed by some Americans, a large proportion of whom had come from Germany, urging that, since the war must end in a peace, it was the duty of the soldiers to make peace at once and save further bloodshed. The plea is not novel; it has been put forth, though not in so many words, by the Germans. Sir Joseph Conolly, R. E., pointed out, however, neither the premise nor the conclusion is admirable. The war is not in the least likely to end in a draw. The allies have made up their minds to be intented with that. They are bound to fight on either to victory or defeat.

Lord Bryce is confident of the former, not only because of the recent successes of the British fleet. Lord Bryce holds the sea and her supremacy there cannot now be shaken. Whether the German government is losing heart or not, it has not yet reached the point where it will be compelled to offer any terms.

As an example of the military in military form or spirit, although it does not instill in boys the military virtues such as honor, loyalty, obedience, and patriotism. The units of the army are not military tactics; they are for the unity, the harmony and the rhythm of spirit that boys learn in scouting. It is in the wearing of uniforms that the boys learn to act together as scouts that they absorb the force and truth of the Scout Law which states: "A Scout is a friend of all, and a brother to every other Scout."

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the Supervisor of Pincher Creek Forest, government timber for timber sale No. 40, will be received at the office of the said Forest Supervisor up until 12 o'clock noon on Monday, the 29th day of December, 1916, for the purchase of the right to cut all standing and fallen dead timber suitable for manufacture into lumber or for disposal as mine props and cordwood or for any other purpose, located in the area of the half of section 33 and a narrow strip along the eastern boundary of that half of section 33, all of which is in the Pincher Creek fifth in the Crownwood Forest Reserve. This is estimated to be approximately two and a half million feet, board measure, of material of all classes on the ground.

The timber must be cut and dried within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is permitted.

Notice is hereby given that certain stock watering reserves which, upon inspection by an officer of the Department of the Interior, are found unfit for agricultural purposes, or for homesteading purposes, may be leased for grazing purposes on the same conditions as ordinary Dominion Lands.

B. L. YORK, Controller

Timber and Grazing Lands Branch, Department of the Interior.

—21—

WEST LAND REGULATION.

The sole head of a family, or any make over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The operator must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made by any Dominion Lands Agency (not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

NOTES—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of the first two years. A homesteader within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is permitted.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead, for $5.00 per acre.

Domestic animals, residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent is issued. The operator must remove before the expiration of the sale all such material which is not in excess of amount above indictated. The timber is mostly pine and spruce and has failed by a fire which burnt over the area about the year 1910. The operators will be allowed until May the first, 1919, to remove the timber. The upset price of the timber will be $10.00 per cord.

Twenty-five cents per cord will be charged for cordwood, and mining timber will be charged for on the basis of one lined foot equals two cords for mining timber. The state rate amount per thousand feet—based on the proper form. No tender from the holder of a licensed timber tenth will be accepted.

Each homesteader is accompanied by a bank draft or accepted cheque for five hundred dollars made payable to the Deputy Minister of the Interior.

For payment, including terms of price and detailed regulations concerning the sale may be obtained from the Forest Supervisor, Pincher Creek,

Alberta, or from the District Inspector of Forest Reserves, Box 1233, Ottawa, Alberta.
